Prof. Huikang Lin

management accounting. Evolution of traditional management accounting into strategic management accounting is under going today when the technology innovation is becoming faster and being normal condition of commercial competition. Regarding to strategic management accounting, based on Professor Michael Porter's (Harvard Business School) value chain theory and Professor Franco Modigliani and Professor Merton Miller's (The Nobel Economics Prize winners) MM model, I have found the theory and logic of "Enterprise's market value and operating cost effectiveness" (this theory is registered with the copyright protection center of China). Strategic management accounting is relatively new, but is very important for business nowadays when a lot of traditional accounting roles are expected to be replaced by AI (Artificial Intelligence). As a pioneering person in this field of science, he is willing and keen on sharing his knowledge and view with all.

Professor Lin is active in China to advocate the development of management accounting, and is frequent keynote speaker about the technical and strategic functionality of accounting to various audiences (such as commercial groups and institutions).

Varun Jain, CPA, CMA
Founder & National Instructor – Miles Education
India's favorite CPA & CMA Instructor

A budding entrepreneur, a seasoned academician and a visionary - Varun Jain, CPA, CMA, is the Founder and National Instructor of Miles Professional Education, which is the largest provider of CPA (Certified Public Accountant) and CMA (Certified Management Accountant) classroom training in India.

Currently pursuing the Senior Executive Leadership Program from Harvard Business School, Varun is soon to be an HBS Alumni.

After clearing his under-graduation in commerce, Varun joined Deloitte Financial Advisory Services in the Valuation team. It was at Deloitte that he came to know of the CPA course and immediately decided to pursue it.

After passing his CPA exams in 2007, he received an offer from Morgan Stanley Investment Banking division in Mumbai, naturally with a multi-fold hike in paycheck. Working there with a team comprising of CA's and MBA's, he realized the value-addition the CPA course had given him. Not only did it reward him with international credentials in record time but it also enlightened him with knowledge of accounting and financial concepts which he applied on his day-to-day work. He was rated amongst the highest-performing bankers on the floor, and in just 18 months, he had created his way to join the Morgan Stanley team of real estate investment bankers in London - a dream come true for most CA's and IIM-passouts and definitely a milestone in his career.

However, he did not go to London or to Dubai, where he had an offer from another global investment bank. He realized that commerce graduates in the country deserve more than what they are acknowledged for, and tried to analyze whether it is credential or knowledge that is holding them back. He said both, and thereupon started his journey to create Miles, a CPA review course in India with a CPA instructor, handwritten course materials and classroom teaching to get to the heart of what Indian CPA candidates really need to know to successfully clear the Uniform CPA Examinations and earn their CPA designation.

Miles Professional Education started with training centres in Hyderabad and Mumbai, which soon expanded to 8 cities across the country. In 2014, Varun was instrumental in Miles' partnership with IMA (Institute of Management Accountants), US, and Wiley to become the "official" training provider of CMA in India using official IMA-licensed Wiley CMAexcel Learning System. With its foray into CMA training, Miles has been able to reinforce its position as the leading provider of high-quality classroom training in India for US professional certifications in accounting and finance like CPA and CMA.

At Miles, Varun has successfully trained hundreds of students for the CPA and CMA exams. He has created valuable training videos which are used as an important tool by local instructors to conduct CPA and CMA training across India. He is undoubtedly India's favorite CPA and CMA instructor.

In his leisure time, Varun enjoys playing squash and basketball. An enthusiastic and articulate orator, Varun has been part of multiple debates, discussions and conferences all along his career journey. And, as the face of Miles today, he is truly an inspiration to many!
